As part of the process of selecting organisations for institutional support, 8 ACT Infield Assessors visited 49 CSOs throughout Serbia and conducted interviews with a total of 360 individuals (average 7.35 persons per CSO / application) in order to get a better insight into their work and assess their organisational and programme capacities.

The reactions of organisations to this approach were extremely positive, as not only does it ensure high-quality evaluation, but it also gives organisations the opportunity to look at the current state of the organisation, see their own organisational, financial, and programme capacities, and be encouraged to think about future changes and improvements within the organisation.
